In Preston, the service is awful. I go in and nobody is there to help the customers. I want to ask where things are because the store is massive and I don't know where anything is. Be aware of it, especially if they started with a stressful traumatic event or period of life (as was the case for Arnold's muscles).